Crossfields Institute Level 5 Diploma in SOCIAL PEDAGOGY

The Crossfields Level 5 Diploma in Social Pedagogy has 3 modules.

MODULE 1

Essential to social pedagogy is developing and nurturing positive and authentic relationships with all people in the care and educational support setting. Learners will:

- › develop a greater understanding of how a social pedagogical perspective can enhance practice with individuals, groups and communities.
- › explore social pedagogy as an overarching ethical and conceptual framework to support holistic well-being and learning.

The module has a high degree of overlap with the Level 3 diploma and our 6-day and 8-day courses. If you have completed any of these, you may be able to continue your social pedagogy learning with a 6-day Level 5 top-up.

MODULE 2

This module aims to foster leadership skills and understandings which support social pedagogy development at individual, service and organisational levels. Social pedagogical leadership is placed in an organisational context, looking particularly at: placing ethical considerations at the heart of decision-making, principles of equality and supporting human development in social pedagogical leadership, and the priority of purposeful consultation in decision-making. We look at scaling and diffusion, working with resistance and creating positive cultures of care.

MODULE 3

In this module learners will be introduced to the social-political aspects of social pedagogy as an ethical orientation concerned with social issues such as promoting human welfare, addressing social inequality and creating conditions in which individuals, groups and communities can unfold their potential. As a transdisciplinary profession, social pedagogy:

- › engages with broader societal aspects and questions.
- › challenges and actively redefines its role to ensure it upholds its core principles.
- › supports the inclusion of society's most disadvantaged groups.

Learners are encouraged to consider this role for social pedagogy practitioners and develop greater awareness of how they can support the social inclusion of the people with whom they work.
